8 | Our Team

We founded Arihanta Institute in April 2022 with a mission to share the timeless principles of ahiṃsā (non-violence) and karuṇā (compassion) with a global audience. As I reflect on 2024, I am filled with pride, heartfelt gratitude, and a renewed conviction in our shared purpose. In a world increasingly marked by violence, suffering, and erosion of ethical values, these teachings have never been more vital.

In 2024, we made significant strides in advancing Engaged Jain Studies through innovative programming and thought leadership. Enrollment in the M.A. in Engaged Jain Studies— offered by our partner, Claremont School of Theology (CST)—nearly tripled from Fall 2023 to Fall 2024. Many more students joined our graduate seminars. We also nearly doubled global enrollment in our growing portfolio of self-paced courses. Attendance at our conferences and speaker series also grew substantially. This indicates a rising worldwide interest in Jain thought and practice.

Our Vegan Studies Initiative (VSI) has evolved into a vibrant platform linking Jain wisdom with contemporary concerns such as food justice, animal advocacy, and environmental ethics. We are also seeing increasing engagement across our six core areas of learning. In 2024 alone, over 100 globally distinguished scholars contributed to our courses, speaker series, conference and more. Building on this momentum, we are excited to launch the Compassion Studies Initiative (CSI) and the Center for Study of Jain Yoga (CSJY) in 2025.

We are deeply grateful to our donors and supporters whose generosity fuels our growth. Thanks to their unwavering support, we proudly established the Tīrthaṅkara Śreyāṃśanātha Endowed Professorship in Vegan and Animal Advocacy Studies in 2025. This landmark achievement affirms our enduring commitment to scholarly excellence.

We are equally thankful to our volunteers, whose selfless services remain the backbone of Arihanta Institute during these formative years.

Our steadfast conviction that education is the most powerful catalyst for societal transformation, strengthens our resolve to offer innovative, accessible learnings grounded in ancient Jain wisdom—guiding individuals toward honorable, purposeful modern living.

Together, we are helping build a kinder, more compassionate society. Whether you are a donor, volunteer, student, faculty member, guest educator, or ally, you are a valued partner in this journey. Your support helps us empower individuals with the knowledge to cultivate a deep-rooted commitment to karuṇā and the transformative power of ahiṃsā in daily life. We are shaping a more conscientious and ethical world—one student at a time.

Parveen Jain.

ABOUT ARIHANTA INSTITUTE

Founded in April 2022 as an IRC 501(c)(3) nonprofit in California, Arihanta Institute is an academic institution committed to advancing education, scholarship, critical research, and the real-world application of Jain principles such as ahimsā (non-violence) and karuṇā (compassion).

Our mission is to empower individuals with the knowledge to apply these values to some of today’s most urgent global challenges. As a leader in Engaged Jain Studies, Arihanta Institute bridges theory and practice through inclusive, accessible online education, dynamic scholarly events, and a pioneering Master of Arts in Engaged Jain Studies — offered by our partner, Claremont School of Theology (CST). Though not a religious organization, our platform connects students with the timeless wisdom of the tīrthaṅkaras, including Mahāvīra, offering transformative insights for modern life.

Arihanta Institute also offers flexible, self-paced courses across six key areas of human concern—philosophy and ethics, compassionate living, spirituality and yoga, animal advocacy, environmental justice, and social action—through three interdisciplinary initiatives: the Vegan Studies Initiative (VSI), the Compassion Studies Initiative (CSI), and the Center for the Study of Jain Yoga (CSJY). These initiatives foster rigorous scholarship, interfaith dialogue, and real-world application through non-degree courses, graduate concentrations, events, articles, and more—led by expert educators and global thought leaders.

VEGAN STUDIES INITIATIVE (VSI)

- VSI launched in April 2024 as a multi-pronged educational effort centered on vegan studies, animal studies, environmental ethics, and food practices, all grounded in Jain principles.
- New MA-EJS concentration on “Veganism, Animals, and Ecology” launched with 3 custom courses.
- 4 online courses released, featuring top global scholars.
- “Voices in Vegan Studies” 9-part speaker series.
- Partnered with global orgs including Climate Healers, Mercy for Animals, We Animals, and Pax Fauna.

CENTER FOR THE STUDY OF JAIN YOGA (CSJY)

- CSJY launched in October 2024, dedicated to advancing research and education in the tradition of Jain yoga and meditation. Building on the success of the global conference “Yoga in Jainism,” held in April 2024, CSJY seeks to illuminate Jain yoga’s unique contributions within the broader field of Yoga Studies.
- New MA-EJS concentration on “Yoga Studies” launched with 6 custom graduate seminars.
- 15 Self-paced and live public courses through 2026.
- Interdisciplinary research events and conferences—upcoming “Yoga Darśana Yoga Sādhana” online conference scheduled for August 8–10, 2025—as well as educational and partner webinars.

COMPASSION STUDIES INITIATIVE (CSI)

- CSI launched in November 2024 as a new educational initiative that inspires individuals to embrace human-to-human compassion as a transformative force for personal growth and the betterment of society.

Includes five key program pillars:

- 10 Self-paced online certificate courses through 2025.
- “Voices in Compassion Studies” 10-part speaker series through 2025.
- 3rd Annual Engaged Jain Studies Conference "Compassion-in-Action" online event in April 2025 uniting global voices on compassion.
- MA-EJS curriculum including focus on applications of compassion.
- $20k Uberoi Foundation grant (Jan 2025) to fund 2025 project.

MASTER OF ARTS IN ENGAGED JAIN STUDIES

In partnership with Arihanta Institute, Claremont School of Theology offers a first-of-its-kind, fully online MA program in Engaged Jain Studies that equips students—Jains and non-Jains alike—to apply Jain philosophy and ethics to real-world challenges. Grounded in rigorous scholarship and taught by global experts, the program emphasizes the integration of Jain values—ahiṃsā (non-violence), aparigraha (non-possession), and anekāntavāda (pluralism)—into daily personal, professional, and social life.

With comprehensive coursework in Jain philosophy, ethics, anthropology, and interreligious studies—including yoga and other dharma traditions—students explore how timeless Jain principles can guide responses to contemporary issues such as environmental degradation, animal welfare, and business ethics. Through community engagement and applied learning, graduates are empowered to become agents of compassionate, values-driven change.

HEAR FROM MA-EJS STUDENTS

“Dr. Miller is a tremendous resource of information. His style of teaching is helpful, conversational, and inclusive. I appreciate how he asked the class questions and got us thinking in new ways. I would highly recommend this course.”
– Graduate Student, TDT 3037/4047 | Social Justice and Modern Yoga, Claremont School of Theology

“Dr. Bohanec is the rare breed of careful and diligent teacher who is also a determined and capable learning coach. One is immediately caught up in his enthusiasm for the subject and his capacity to communicate it in ways that share that love. Indeed, as an instructor, this enables him also to be kind and generous in his teaching.”
– Jay TH., MA-EJS Graduate Student, TDT 3035/4035 | Sanskrit II, CST

“I appreciated the breadth and depth of the topic! More than any material I've yet consumed or classes I've taken, this course changed my ideas on what “vegan” means - for the better. I gained more cultural literacy and conversational competencies, which then created a direct positive effect on my daily and activist life. This course is truly fantastic and I appreciated it a great deal.”
– Graduate Student, TDT 3040/4040 | Jain Veganism in the History of Global Veganism, CST

FACULTY ACHIEVEMENTS

Arihanta Institute has a distinguished and growing faculty, including 3 full-time professors, over 10 guest educators, and more than 25 subject-area experts. Thanks to the dedication of our students, supporters, volunteers, and staff, 2024 marked a year of remarkable academic growth and achievement. We expanded our online course offerings across all disciplines, enriched our graduate programs with new concentrations in Vegan Studies, Yoga Studies, and Language Studies (Sanskrit Gujarati, and Prakrit), and participated in numerous prestigious scholarly events. Our faculty advanced critical research, translation, and publication efforts, while our expanding global partnerships with universities and like-minded institutions have significantly broadened access to Jain Studies worldwide.
